This certifies that the note that appears on the face of this document is a special collector's edition reprint of authentic currency issued by private banks and businesses in the U.S. prior to the Civil War. American Bank Note Company, the first private printer of U.S. currency, used the original engraved plate and the actual Intaglio printing method for this reprint. Notice that the note is printed on one side, with black ink, as was common during the mid 1800's.
